What You Have Accomplished Since Your Last Meeting:

I spent a lot of time this week getting ahead on projects for other classes to free up this weekend and next week to work on preparing a meeting of the minds poster. With that said, I still spent some time trying to adapt a bound I came across in a Theorists Toolkit lecture for the expectation of a sub-hadamard matrix but got something that's rather trivial. I also spent some time trying to consolidate the ideas I've come up with and worked on to come up with some cohesive conclusions from the research despite the fact that there were no earth-shattering results, and I solidified some plans to continue work on this project over the summer.

Meeting Your Milestone:

Made some progress on the goal set last week, but mostly set myself up to be able to put more time into this in the coming days.
